

+Weekly Reflection on The Word of God+ SEVENTEEN SUNDAY OF ORDINARY

The multiplication of loaves and fish has sometimes been described as being a social miracle: that Jesus shared all the food that he had and people were impressed by his generosity and they shared all the food that they had. This is a beautiful story, but it is not what is found in this Gospel account. This is a nature miracle, one in which Jesus changes the rules of nature. This idea is reinforced by the fact that Jesus goes out for a walk on the Sea of Galilee in the next passage of the Gospel and He then calms a storm, both of which are also nature miracles. Miracles can and do happen, both in Jesus' day and our own. This Gospel strongly emphasizes the fact that this is a prefiguring of the Sacrament of the Eucharist. God has invited us to a great dignity in being called His beloved children. He has forgiven our sins and healed our brokenness. Now we must live as if we are saved. We must respond to the love of God and live in that love. This means that we must adopt a lifestyle that proclaims the mercy of God. We must live with humility and gentleness and patience.
